This drawing of "Old Washburn," circa 1888, was printed in the 1909 Kaw. Rice Hall is the original and largest of six buildings. Next to Rice (L to R) are Whitin Hall, a men's dormitory, and Boswell Memorial Library. The three buildings in the background are South Cottage, Hartford Cottage and Holbrook Hall, all women's dormitories. South Cottage, built in 1879, was destroyed by fire in 1881. Whitin Hall was moved in 1903 to make room for Carnegie Library.

From the President

In early January, as this column is written, we are recovering from a winter storm that closed the campus for a day. It is a good time to be thinking about travel schedules for basketball playoffs. Basketball playoffs mean spring is here, and it is easy to think of warmer weather.

Both the men's and women's teams are nationally ranked, talented and fun to watch. The dream is that one or both will see post-season play. As much as we enjoy the games themselves and appreciate the talent of our student athletes and coaches, perhaps as enjoyable is the social interaction that surrounds the teams and the events. In the winter, we see our friends and neighbors at the games when the cold weather is keeping us otherwise holed up next to the fireplace.

Jerry Farley

“Athletics is only one of the avenues we all use to stay connected.”

This basketball season, we televised three games on KTWU, giving fans and alumni in the eastern third of Kansas and western Missouri a chance to see the men's and women's teams. We know Washburn fans all over the world listen to the games on the web broadcasts. People watch and listen to those games, then talk with us and with each other to share their common interest in Washburn.

When the teams travel to far-flung places for tournaments and playoffs, we always meet alumni from the area who make the effort to come and reconnect. Athletics is only one of the avenues we all use to stay connected. Musical performances, alumni After Hours and lectures on campus serve the same purpose. Thank you for all the ways you remain connected to Washburn University.

VISION & GENEROSITY

Re-building a Chapel for Washburn

When a massive and destructive tornado ripped through Topeka in 1966, it destroyed much of the Washburn University campus, taking with it long-standing buildings that held fond memories for many. For almost 40 years, Washburn has worked to re-build the buildings taken away in just a few short minutes.

MacVicar Chapel was one of the buildings standing in the path of the tornado. This beautiful structure which complimented the open layout of the campus was gone in a blink of an eye. Washburn has not had a spiritual center available for its students until the Carole Chapel arrived on campus last spring.

The Carole Chapel was named after Carole Bloomfield Etzel, b ed '63, who along with her husband Tim, bba '64, provided most of the funds and vision needed to make the chapel a reality for Washburn.

"If it wasn't for Carole's vision, it wouldn't have been possible," said Tim Etzel. Knowing the Menninger Clinic was leaving Topeka and seeing a beautiful building possibly being abandoned, Carole and Tim saw an opportunity to enhance Washburn.

Carole loved the feeling the chapel gave her while it was on the Menninger campus.

"I was enamored with the chapel at Menninger's—it had such a wonderful and comforting feeling," said Carole Etzel.

This past spring, the Carole Chapel was relocated and nestled into the heart of Washburn's campus east of Benton Hall. The building was donated to Washburn by the Menninger Foundation when the Clinic relocated to Texas. The Carole Chapel, formerly known as the Nunemaker Chapel on the Menninger campus, was designed with nature in mind. Windows encompass most of the building and provide a very welcoming and comfortable feeling.

"We feel that a spiritual presence on campus through a non-denominational chapel is very important in a student's life and feel that addressing student's spiritual needs have been missing since MacVicar was destroyed," said Tim Etzel.

Washburn students will now have fond memories of the chapel just as the Etzel's hold dear their memories of MacVicar. The chapel will be open to students for meditation, recitals, poetry readings and even weddings.

"We are very excited about the future of the chapel and look forward to all of the experiences it will bring for students," said Tim Etzel.

A touch of fate, a lot of vision and a tremendous amount of generosity has provided a spiritual center that will create fond memories for a new generation of Washburn students.

Events change for ALUMNI WEEKEND

In 2004, we kicked off Alumni Weekend with Thursday morning's Wake Up With Washburn breakfast lecture. Friday activities included a lunchtime alumni awards program and evening After Hours.

This year, the alumni awards program has been moved to Saturday evening, April 23.

"Over the years, attendance at the awards program has grown. Last year, the event sold out two weeks in advance. In addition, we were looking for a new signature event for Alumni Weekend," Susie Hoffmann, director of the Alumni Association said. "So we moved the awards program to a larger venue, are hosting the event on Saturday evening and have added a cocktail reception and dance."

A luncheon on Friday, April 22, will honor retiring faculty. The idea for this event came from the Alumni Association's mission, to keep alumni connected to Washburn.

"We know for many alumni, one of their strongest ties to Washburn is the faculty," Hoffmann said. "Over and over again, our award winners, Wake Up speakers and Alumni Fellows recipients have shared with us stories about how their favorite faculty member impacted their lives and careers."

Also new this year is the Student Government Association Reunion Luncheon on Saturday, April 23.

"Attendance at class reunions has dwindled in the past few years,"

Hoffmann said. "Rather than having reunions based solely on class year, the Alumni Association plans to host a variety of affinity group reunions. This SGA reunion is the first of these reunions and will include alumni who graduated within the last 20 years and were members of student government."

Alumni who graduated in 1965, 1955, 1945 and 1935 will be recognized on Saturday evening at the Alumni Awards and Recognition Dinner. The 1955 graduates will receive their 50 year alumni pins and the others will receive special gifts.

ALUMNI WEEKEND APRIL 21-23

21

The Wake Up With Washburn breakfast lecture featuring speaker Peggy Johnson, b ed '70, will mark the beginning of Alumni Weekend 2005. Johnson, an advocate of breast cancer awareness, is executive director and chief operating officer of the Wichita Medical Research and Education Foundation. She served as chairman of the national board of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and played a key role in establishing the Koman Wichita Race for the Cure.

22

The Washburn Alumni Association Retiring Faculty Recognition Luncheon will be held in the Bradbury Thompson Center at 11:30 a.m. The retiring faculty to be honored include Betty Cole, associate professor of biology; Ron Evans, professor of psychology; Susan Miller, associate professor of health, physical education and exercise science; Loretta Moore, professor in the School of Law; Marie-Luce Parker, professor of modern languages; Tom O'Connor, professor of biology; and Tom Wolf, professor of biology.

Washburn University's
140 YEARS OF HISTORY

140 years:

a look at Washburn's foundations

Washburn University launched a year-long celebration of our 140th anniversary on Founders Day, Feb. 6. This issue takes a look at the beginning years leading to the 50th anniversary in 1915. The following issues in 2005 will continue the timeline, bringing us through the years to where we are today.

The beginning years, 1857 -1915:

From Topeka Institute to the 50th anniversary of Washburn College

1857

The Congregational Association meets in Topeka and votes to locate a Christian college in Topeka under the auspices of the Congregational Churches provided the citizens of Topeka donate a suitable site and erect a building.

COL. JOHN RITCHIE

1860

Due to the efforts of Ritchie and Rice, Topeka is able to offer 160 acres plus a building for a school, and this is accepted by the Congregational Association. The college is known as the Topeka Institute.

ICHABOD WASHBURN

1866 [JANUARY 3]

Between 30-40 students attend the first classes, all in the Academy.

1868 [JUNE]
Addison P. Davis graduates, receiving the only diploma from Lincoln College.

[OCTOBER]
The Rev. Horatio Q. Butterfield solicits a $25,000 donation from Ichabod Washburn.

[NOVEMBER 19] Lincoln College is renamed Washburn College

REV. PETER McVICAR

[FEBRUARY]
The Rev. Peter McVicar is elected the second president. He serves 24 years.

1872

The building at 10th and Jackson is sold to the city of Topeka for $15,000.

[JUNE]
Construction begins on the first building erected on the college site, costing $65,000.

1855

1858 [SPRING]

Gold is discovered near Pike's Peak.

1859

George Davis, wanting to join the gold rush, offers to sell his 160 acres to Col. John Ritchie for cash in hand. Ritchie mortgages his property and underwrites Harvey Rice's trip east to borrow funds.

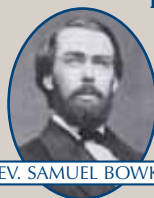

HARVEY RICE

1865 [FEBRUARY 6]

A group of Topekans incorporates and presents a constitution and by-laws to the probate judge. The school is chartered under the name Lincoln College.

REV. SAMUEL BOWKER

The Rev. Samuel Bowker arrives from Maine and is elected financial agent and first principal of the Academy.

1865

REV. HORATIO Q. BUTTERFIELD

1870

1869 [JUNE]

The Rev. Butterfield is elected the first president of Washburn College.

1874

Washburn College moves into the completed building. Women board in the basement and men board on the second floor. The faculty occupy the first floor, which has a library, chapel and recitation rooms.

Washburn University's 140 YEARS OF HISTORY

Charlotte Mendell Leavitt

(Dec. 5, 1867-Feb. 25, 1958) joined the Washburn faculty in 1899 as a professor of English and dean of women. She was later made head of the English department and received an honorary doctorate from Washburn in 1925. A member of Nonosol, she suggested the motto Non Nobis Solum, "not for ourselves alone." Leavitt served at Washburn until 1941.

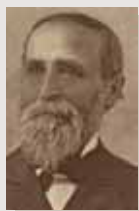

Daniel Moses Fisk

(April 10, 1846-Sept. 30, 1932) joined the Washburn faculty in 1899. In 1913 the department of sociology was organized, with Fisk named as chairman. This was one of the earliest sociology departments in the nation. He was also a field agent and recruiter and traveled throughout Kansas using his lantern slide show to promote Washburn. He retired in 1924.

Albe Whiting

(Nov. 10, 1835-May 14, 1928) served as a trustee of Washburn College for 51 years. The class of 1908 dedicated the yearbook to him, calling him "a common, big-hearted, lovable man" with "generous interest ever shown in our college." After his death in 1928, the Whiting Field House was named in his honor.

The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon

(Feb. 26, 1857-

Feb. 24, 1946)

served as a Washburn College trustee from 1911-1920 and as pastor of the Central Congregational Church, which is close to the campus. The March 1903 Washburn College Bulletin called him "an important factor in the religious life of the college" whom "we delight to call 'our campus pastor.'" The 1906 Kaw is dedicated to him. In 1896 Sheldon authored the best-selling novel "In His Steps." An estimated 30 million copies of the book have been sold in 45 languages.

The Washburn College Seal

first appeared in the October 1905 Washburn College Bulletin. It is also stamped on the first page of the 1906 Kaw and on the title page of the 1909 Kaw. It features the motto "Non Nobis Solum," and hands passing and receiving a torch. This seal was used until 1941, when Washburn College became Washburn University of Topeka.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY only survivor of early Washburn days By Martha Imperato

Carnegie Library, built from funds donated by Andrew Carnegie, was dedicated June 13, 1905 during Commencement Week exercises. For fifty years it housed the university library, classrooms, offices, and a sociology library.

In 1955 the library moved to Morgan Hall, and Carnegie was renovated for the law school and the law library. The law school occupied Carnegie until the June 8, 1966 tornado devastated the campus and much of Topeka.

At the time the tornado hit, students were taking a law review course in the basement, and other students were taking an exam on the second floor. The second floor group was able to make it safely to the basement, except for two women who were on the basement stairs when it hit. They were blown into a nearby restroom and pinned against the wall. Miraculously, no one on campus was killed or seriously hurt.

During the survey of damage, it was decided that Carnegie and five other major buildings would be torn down, but many alumni lobbied to save one of the old buildings. Experts determined that Carnegie had the least damage, so it was allowed to be rebuilt. They were also swayed by the recent installation of a central air conditioning unit, which, except for some of the ductwork, was undamaged. Portable classroom units replaced the damaged and razed buildings and the university re-opened for fall semester.

By spring semester 1967, Carnegie was rebuilt and the education department moved in. The law school had been planning for a new building, so decided to continue using the portable classrooms until it was completed.

Carnegie continues to be the home of the Education Department, and it continues to house a library. The Curriculum Resources Center, in the basement, is a model preK-12 school library and teacher reference center.

REV. NORMAN PLASS

The Rev. Norman Plass becomes the fourth president.

[MAY 13]

The chapel is named MacVicar, and the original building is named Rice Hall.

1904

The cornerstone is laid for Carnegie Hall in October. The building is completed in the spring of 1905.

DR. FRANK KNIGHT SANDERS

Dr. Frank Knight Sanders becomes the fifth president.

Thomas Gymnasium opens. It is a memorial to Charles B. Thomas, a Washburn student, with funds donated by his father, Jonathan Thomas.

1912

Sagamore, the men's honor society, is founded.

1913 [JUNE]

The medical college merges with the medical college at the University of Kansas.

1915

Parley Womer becomes the sixth president.

The Kaw reports that Washburn has a cash endowment of $360,000, and the grounds and buildings are valued at $700,000. Student enrollment has reached 806, the largest to date, and 90 students graduate.

NEW LOGO UNVEILED

A new Washburn logo and a logo to promote Washburn's 140th anniversary were introduced in February in conjunction with the anniversary celebrations.

The new Washburn logo retains the original symbol of the crest with the flame in order to represent the University's tradition of academic excellence. The vintage crest has been simplified and adapted to reflect the renewed strength and boldness of the University. The type font has been updated to a more pleasing timeless font with graphic stylization.

Jerry B. Farley, president of Washburn unveiled the new logos at a news conference Feb. 4.

"Technology has changed the ways in which we project our image," said Jerry B. Farley, president of Washburn. "While the Washburn family crest remains a symbol of our tradition, the intricate detail in the design does not always reproduce satisfactorily. Advancements in electronic communication created the need for Washburn to revise our visual identity to be more adaptable to this medium."

Blue and white anniversary banners are on display in downtown Topeka along Kansas Avenue. This banner flies near the capital building.

December COMMENCEMENT

Arthur McKinney, bs '04, was among more than 300 graduates receiving diplomas in December's commencement exercises. McKinney, who enrolled at Washburn in 1994, interrupted his college career in 1997 to join the Army, volunteering for special forces and serving three tours -- or two years -- in Afghanistan. He returned to Washburn in 2003, but only for one semester. In May 2004, he went to Iraq to serve as a civilian body guard to Paul Bremmer, the U.S. presidential envoy to Iraq, and then as body guard to John Negroponte, the U.S. ambassador to Iraq. Since graduating, McKinney returned to Iraq to do similar work, but he plans to be back in the United States by the fall of 2005 to pursue a master's program in Washington, D.C. He is the son of Joseph McKinney, ba '65 and jd '86, Topeka.

Kati (Amos) Curts, bba '04, Merriam, Kan., and Jessica (Trigg) Mai, bis '04, Florissant, Mo., were presented with the spring 2004 Sibberson Awards during commencement exercises Dec. 10. The prestigious honor, which includes a substantial monetary award, recognizes the highest-ranking members of the senior class in the undergraduate program who complete degrees during the recent academic year.

While at Washburn, Curts was inducted into Nonoso, Phi Kappa Phi Interdisciplinary Honor Society and Gamma Sigma Alpha honor society. She was also active in the Leadership Institute, the American Business Women's Association and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is planning to pursue a graduate degree.

Mai was also inducted into Nonoso, Phi Kappa Phi, Gamma Sigma Alpha and the Order of Omega Honor Society while a student at Washburn and participated in the Leadership Institute. She was active in Washburn Student Government Association and the Delta Gamma sorority. She is pursuing a doctor of optometry degree at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

The Sibberson Award was established through the trusts of Erna Sibberson and Gretchen O.A. Siberson, both 1937 graduates of Washburn.

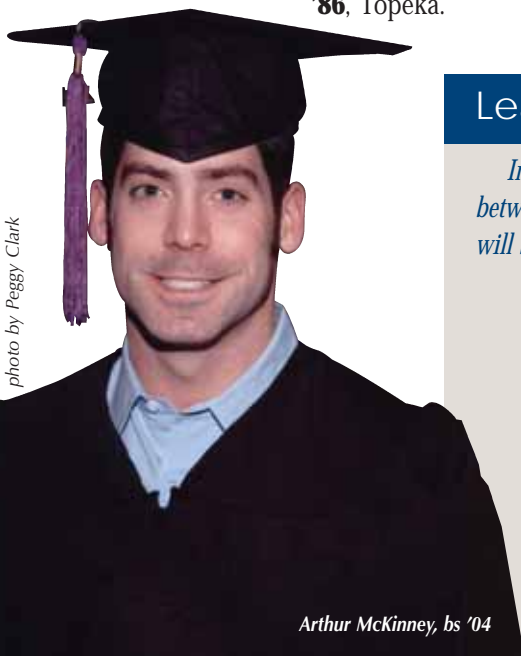

Learning Quest Extended to Future Washburn Students

In January, Kansas State Treasurer Lynn Jenkins, CPA, announced the first-ever partnership between Washburn and the Kansas 529 education savings program, Learning Quest. The program will be in place for the 2005 fall semester.

"The University is pleased to have entered the partnership," said Washburn's president Jerry Farley. "The Kansas 529 education savings program provides future students with enhanced opportunities, which complements the mission set forth by Washburn."

Washburn will offer $1,000 scholarships to Kansas students with Learning Quest accounts who have an ACT score of 24 or a SAT score of 1100 and a 3.5 high school grade point average. Non-resident students having Learning Quest accounts who meet the same scholastic criteria will be granted in-state tuition rates. Learning Quest is established by the State of Kansas and administered by the State Treasurer's office. For more information, call 1-800-579-2203 or visit learningquest.com.

Washburn Student Interns in Britain

Each summer many Washburn students either study abroad or work as interns in their career fields. During the summer of 2004, Bethanee Boeh, St. Joseph, Mo., a junior majoring in political science, combined both opportunities with an internship abroad at the British House of Commons.

"I was able to experience the British parliamentary system first hand, getting a chance to understand bills and what is important to British citizens," Boeh said. Her duties included researching for and writing reports, responding to constituent letters and attending committee meetings. Because she interned for Paul Flynn, who is from Newport in Wales, agriculture was a major issue.

Most of Boeh's travel and living expenses were covered by scholarships from the political science department and the international programs office. This is her third internship since beginning at Washburn. The other internships were in Topeka in the attorney general's office and with a lobbying firm.

Boeh is the daughter of Andrea and John Boeh, ba '74 and jd '77.

New Master of Science in nursing

The Washburn University School of Nursing is offering a master's program beginning with the fall 2005 semester. The 42-45 credit hour program will offer three specialty tracks: adult nurse practitioner, administrative leadership and public health. Students in the adult nurse practitioner track may add a four credit hour course focused on gerontology in preparation for certification as a gerontology clinical nurse specialist.

The graduate curriculum is designed to provide a contemporary, rigorous, yet flexible, preparation for advanced nursing practice. Online and on site courses will be offered each semester.

Washburn Forensics Stronger than Ever

By Jim Schnoebelen, assistant director of forensics

(L to R) Sophomores Jackie Blaesi, Sharon Springs, Kan., and Sarah Vandalsem, Silver Lake, Kan., competed in numerous forensics competitions since joining the Talkin' Ichabods as freshmen. In February, at Washburn's Capital City Classics Forensics Tournament, Blaesi and Vandalsem placed fifth and sixth respectively in extemporaneous speaking. Blaesi placed fifth in rhetorical criticism, and Vandalsem placed sixth. Vandalsem is the daughter of Mary and Ronald Vandalsem, ba '71, Silver Lake, Kan.

The Washburn forensics team discovered something remarkable during the fall 2004 semester: It had grown three fold from the year before and had quickly become a regional powerhouse in forensics competitions.

During the fall semester, the squad competed in four invitational tournaments and placed in the top three at each of these tournaments.

At Truman State University, Kirksville, Mo., in October, Washburn placed third in debate and third in overall sweepstakes.

At the Creighton/Concordia University Swing, Omaha, Neb., in October, the Ichabods placed second in debate and third overall.

At Longview Community College's Tournament, Lee's Summit, Mo., also in October, the squad placed first in debate and second overall.

At the Central Missouri State University and University of Missouri-Columbia University Swing in November, the team achieved a triple crown, winning first place in debate, individual events and overall sweepstakes.

Along the way, the Talkin' Ichabods have scored well against Kansas State University, Truman State University, Creighton University, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the University of Missouri-Columbia, Notre Dame University, and Northwestern University.

In January, the squad placed second overall and second in debate sweepstakes at Concordia University, Seward, Neb. In February, they hosted the Capital City Classic Forensics Tournament on the Washburn campus, where the squad placed well in individual events with finalists in five different events. The squad is traveling to four other tournaments, including the National Forensics Association Championships as well as a return to the Novice Forensics Championships.

FOOTBALL

Ichabods win the 2004 Mineral Water Bowl 36-33

On Dec. 4, the Ichabods won their first post season game since 1976 and tied a school record for wins at 8-4. The 8-4 mark was the Ichabods best record since the 1986 season, when the squad went 8-3. It was also the seventh time in school history that a Washburn team recorded eight wins.

In the bowl's fourth quarter, Northern State University tied the game at 33 by scoring 16 unanswered points. The Ichabods then drove 65 yards in nine plays in 1:41. Senior quarterback Tyler Schuerman, Riverview, Fla., completed 3-of-6 passes for 46 yards and scampered for 13 more to set up the game-winning 32-yard field goal by Conner Sabel, Shawnee, Kan.

Schuerman tied a Mineral Water Bowl record with his four touchdown passes and was named D2Football.com National Player of the Week for his performance. He also finished with a career-high 400 passing yards, completing 23 of 38 passes. Schuerman also set Ichabod career records with 6,525 passing yards and 8,315 yards of total offense.

BASKETBALL

Coach Bob Chipman wins 600

With a 73-64 win over Southwest Baptist University in Lee Arena Jan. 19, Washburn head coach Bob Chipman became just the 10th coach in NCAA Division II history to win 600 career games. In his 26th season as the Ichabod head coach, Chipman has never had a losing season.

Chipman also became the 45th coach in all divisions of NCAA basketball to reach 600 wins. By winning his 600th game in just 801 games, he reached the 600 win plateau sooner than Jim Boeheim (807 games) Bob Knight (812), Lute Olson (815), John Chaney (816), Mike Krzyzewski (823), Denny Crum (825) and Eddie Sutton (837).

■ After leading the Lady Blues to three straight MIAA Championships and four 20-win seasons, Ron McHenry, ba '85, was named the MIAA Coach of the Year for the first time this season.

■ Senior Travis Robbins (Clover, S.C.) goes in for two of the 17 points he scored against Central Missouri State University. Robbins was named the MIAA's Most Valuable Player after finishing second in the MIAA in scoring with a 20.9 ppg average and leading the league in rebounding and field goal percentage.

GOLF

The Washburn golf team entered the spring season with a 3-point lead over Central Missouri State University in the MIAA standings. Washburn had 14 points after winning both tournaments in the fall at Southwest Baptist University and Pittsburg State University, while Central Missouri State University was in second place with 11 points.

Washburn is looking to repeat as MIAA champions and return to the NCAA Division II National Tournament for the third straight season with returning All-MIAA selections Chris McGown, Mound City, Kan., and Matt Warnock, Liberty, Mo.

The Ichabod golf team enters the 2005 spring season in first place in the MIAA race behind. Senior Chris McGown (Mound City, Kan.) leads the team with a 73 stroke average and has won both of the MIAA-sponsored events this season.

TENNIS

The Washburn men's and women's tennis teams are looking to repeat the success each team experienced last spring. The Lady Blues won an MIAA title and went to the NCAA Division II National Tournament, while the Ichabods finished second in the MIAA and reached the NCAA Division II National Tournament.

BASEBALL

The Ichabod baseball team is looking to build on a strong finish to the 2004 season and gain a berth to the MIAA Tournament in 2005 under 26 year head coach Steve Anson. Anson is 28th in NCAA Division II history with 647 career wins.

Washburn won four of its final five games on the road last season to finish 26-23. The Ichabods returned five All-MIAA selections, including second team pick Jerad Head, Topeka, and pitchers Jake Loveless, Lyndon, Kan., and Jake Lenherr, St. Marys, Kan. Outfielder Sam Sissom, Kansas City, Mo., and first baseman/designated hitter Randy Wild, Maple Hill, Kan., returned to the starting lineup.

SOFTBALL

The Washburn softball team is expecting a talented group of newcomers to get back in contention for an MIAA title and NCAA Tournament berth in 2005. Ten freshmen joined the lineup that includes only five returning players from last season's squad that finished 32-25.

Junior catcher Kala Huske, Overland Park, Kan., and sophomore outfielder Ashley Webb, Prairie Village, Kan., were named to the All-MIAA team last season. Huske was second on the team with a .320 batting average, while Webb had 53 hits and a team-high 33 runs. Jackie Sells, Lee's Summit, Mo., is the only Lady Blue senior this season.

The Lady Blues are off to a quick start much in part to freshman pitcher Kelly Swygert from Topeka. Swygert tossed three complete-game shutouts to start the season, including a one-hit shutout in her first collegiate game.

FACULTY

“Civil War In Kansas,” by Roy Bird, was published in 2004 by Pelican Publishing Co. The book examines the battles and campaigns of the Jayhawkers and Bushwackers as well as the personalities involved in the Civil War years (1861-65). Bird, a Kansas historian and adjunct in the English department, has 14 published books, including “In His Brother’s Shadow: the Life of Thomas Ward Custer,” published in 2002 by Turner Publishing Co. and “Washburn Through the Years,” a history of Washburn University.

Michael Almond, assistant professor of art, provided 22 original pencil sketches that illustrate “Civil War In Kansas” by Roy Bird. Additionally, the cover of the book is taken from an oil painting by Almond. Almond displayed the sketches in the Oct. 15-Dec. 5 Mulvane Art Museum’s Washburn Art Faculty Exhibition.

“Spatzies and Brass BBs,” by Ken Ohm, published by Leathers Publishing in 2004, with a second printing in January 2005, is an autobiographical memoir of farm and school life in Kansas during the early 1940s. Ohm describes his grade school years in Sunnyside School, a one-room schoolhouse north of Winfield, Kan., and in Stony Ridge School, southwest of Emporia, Kan. Ohm served as mathematics and physics professor and dean of faculty at Sheridan College in Wyoming for 30 years and was a fellow at Stanford University. He joined the Washburn faculty in 1992 and is a lecturer in mathematics, astronomy and education.

Carol Vizzier, associate dean of student affairs in the School of Law, resigned her position to become the assistant dean at the University of Maine Law School, beginning in January. Vizzier joined the School of Law faculty in 2000.

PROFILE: Jerry Schemmel

Jerry Schemmel, ba '82 and jd '85, Littleton, Colo., dipped his bike in the Pacific Ocean on June 10. On July 14, he dipped it in the Atlantic Ocean after peddling 34 days and 3,221 miles across the United States, from San Diego to St. Augustine, Fla. Schemmel describes his adventure of "bumpy roads, flash floods, dead armadillos and bottle rockets" in a three-part series published in Mile High Sports Magazine. His wife, Diane (Frederick) Schemmel, ba '85, with their children Maggie and Ryan, accompanied him, providing snacks, water and encouragement throughout the trip.

The approximately $75,000 raised from this summer's cross-country ride goes to Denver's Children's Hospital. Schemmel's association with the hospital began about six years ago when he served as master of ceremonies at a benefit banquet.

"They gave me a tour of the hospital. I was extremely touched at the level of care they gave children from all over the world and wanted to do something for them," he said. The trek, dubbed Tour de Faith II, was Schemmel's second cross-country bike ride for charity. In the summer of 2003, he rode from San Francisco to Yorktown, Va., to raise $200,000 for an athletic complex at his daughter's school. Construction of the football, soccer and baseball complex is expected to be completed this summer.

Schemmel has been the radio voice of the Denver Nuggets since 1992. His sportscasting career spans 16 years and includes radio and television play by play of college football and basketball as well as the National Basketball Association.

He also delivers 25-30 motivational speeches a year, including a speech in the Alumni Association's 1996 Wake Up With Washburn series. His book, "Chosen to Live," chronicles the 1989 crash of United Airlines Flight 232 and its subsequent effects on his life. He has been a guest on several national and international television programs, including "Regis and Kathi Lee," "48 Hours," "CBS This Morning," "Good Morning America," and "The Oprah Winfrey Show."
